

Ben Affleck and Jennifer Garner's divorce is all HER fault according to Relationship Expert and NYT Bestselling Author Laura Doyle

- There are only ever two reasons marriages fail:
 - The husband is not safe--he's physically abusive, not capable of being faithful or actively addicted to drugs, alcohol or gambling. Safety comes first, and that's a divorce I endorse.
 - If Ben is one of those three, then she knew that before she married him. Wives always know, but especially when he's an A-lister like Ben.
 - If he's not one of those three, then he's a good guy. Then the failure is always that the wife doesn't have the Intimacy Skills that make marriages passionate and playful, even though she is the keeper of the relationship.
- Jen didn't have the Intimacy Skills to make her marriage work so she:
 - Made him go to marriage counseling. For YEARS, but it didn't work and it never does! 75% of couples who got traditional behavioral marriage counseling were separated within a year according to a UCLA study by professors of psychology. No couple ever got happier by complaining about each other for an hour a week.
- Like a lot of women, Jen just didn't have the right information. She didn't have Relationships 101 in school, and maybe didn't get good modeling. If you're from a broken home, you're following a failed recipe. Also, everything you've ever read in women's magazines is wrong.
- What really works and could have saved Jennifer's marriage is learning and practicing the Six Intimacy Skills in First, Kill All the Marriage Counselors: Modern Day Secrets to Being Desired, Cherished and Adored for Life.

Laura Doyle is the author of First, Kill All the Marriage Counselors and is the New York Times best-selling author of The Surrendered Wife, The Surrendered Single and Things Will Get as Good as You Can Stand. Her books have been translated into 16 languages and published in 27 countries. Over 150,000 women credit her with not only saving their relationships, but also showing them how to become desired, cherished and adored. She is the founder of Laura Doyle Connect, an international relationship coaching company that teaches women the intimacy skills they need to have passionate, peaceful relationships.

She has appeared on CBS Evening News, Dateline NBC, The Today Show, Good Morning America and The View. She has been written about in The Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, The Washington Post, The London Telegraph and The New Yorker. She is a regular contributor to The Huffington Post. Laura lives in Newport Beach, California with her hilarious husband John Doyle, who has been dressing himself since before she was born. They have been married for 25 years.